Brainstorming Workshop on Development of Database Centre for Conservation of Biodiversity
25-26 March, 2022

Organized By Database Centre for Himalayan Fishes,
Uttarakhand
Department of Zoology
Government P. G. College
New Tehri, Tehri Garhwal -249001,

INVITATION

Dear Colleagues,
With great pleasure we extend a warm welcome to you, on behalf of the organizing committee to participate in the "Brainstorming Workshop on Development of Database Centre for Conservation of Himalayan Fish Biodiversity" dated from 25th to 26th March, 2022, organized by Database centre for Himalayan Fishes, Uttarakhand, Department of Zoology, Government Post Graduate College New Tehri, Tehri Garhwal -249001, Uttarakhand

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

Evolution of Computer technology and advent of database concept have provided enormous opportunities to the scientist, researchers and managers of diverse field to create, manipulate, integrate, link and analyze their data in order to generate information and knowledge. The research involving exploration, survey and collection of data, generally create a database to maintain and analyze the data. Scientists and researchers of life sciences realized the importance of the database and used this technology to develop databases of different types/groups of living organisms. Now a days, the enterprise information systems have been much affected by the evolution of database technology.

Fishes are the most diverse group of vertebrates, characterized by the great diversity of their morphology, physiology, ecology, life history and behavior. India is one of the 12 mega biodiversity hot spots contributing to the world's biological resources from the greater Himalayan range on the northern plains, long stretches of Eastern and Western Ghats. Being natural habitat for about 11.72% of global fish biodiversity, India's contributes in the world in total fish production. Nation-wise, number of endemic fresh water fish species occur in India contributing 27.8% of the native fish fauna. Fish, besides its nutritional, ecological and environmental importance at global level. Fisheries are fast growing subsector of Indian agriculture with maximum potential.

Fisheries play promising role in socio economic development by providing nutritional security for the burgeoning Indian population contribute to the economic upliftment of farmers and fisher folks. Considering the future long run needs of society in Indian Scenario, fisheries and agriculture will be prime concern. As such, scientists, researchers and associated planning of fishery domain are harnessing database technology since long to organize the data related to fishery aspects for different purposes including modeling and analysis for generating information and knowledge. Many fishery organizations and industries have already promoted the database

Technology for decision making, develop strategies and plans to protect and conserve the prime resources for the better nutritional food security.

National Bureau of Fish Genetic Resources (NBFGR), premier institute of India Council of Agricultural Research and Department of Agricultural Research and Education (DARE), Government of India has mandate for collection, classification and cataloguing of data and information on genetic resource of the country beside research activities. Thus, in order to classify and catalogue the fish genetic resource of the country was the database technology applied to create and develop the data related to various vivid aspects. Basic types of databases are being developed spatial and non-spatial.

Department of Zoology, Government P.G. College New Tehri, Tehri Garhwal, Uttarakhand has developed Database Centre for Himalayan Fishes, Uttarakhand issues of future development.
