7. Detail report of IPR Awareness Workshop:

INTRODUCTION

Intellectual property rights (IPR) refers to the legal rights given to the inventor or creator to protect his invention or creation for a certain period of time. These legal rights confer an exclusive right to the inventor/creator or his assignee to fully utilize his invention/creation for a given period of time. It is very well settled that IP play a vital role in the modern economy. It has also been conclusively established that the intellectual labor associated with the innovation should be given due importance so that public good emanates from it. IPR is a strong tool, to protect investments, time, money, effort invested by the inventor/creator of an IP, since it grants the inventor/creator an exclusive right for a certain period of time for use of his invention/creation. Thus IPR, in this way aids the economic development of a country by promoting healthy competition and encouraging industrial development and economic growth.

Intellectual and Industrial Property Rights are the rights associated with “products of the mind”. The rights which I am going to refer to are:

• Trade Marks • Patents • Copyright • Registered Design Rights • Unregistered Design Rights; and • Know-how/ Confidential Information

Types of Intellectual Properties

Originally, only patent, trademarks, and industrial designs were protected as ‘Industrial Property’, but now the term ‘Intellectual Property’ has a much wider meaning. IPR enhances technology advancement in the following ways.

1. It provides a mechanism of handling infringement, piracy, and unauthorized use
2. It provides a pool of information to the general public since all forms of IP are published except in case of trade secrets.
